WEST VIRGINIA MAN GIVES HIS SUPPORT

Convention Acclaims Roosevelt's Demand For Liberal Candidates

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—The national convention of the Young Democrat clubs of America swung into its second day of formal sessions today, with warnings from both President Roosevelt and Sen. Claude Pepper, of Florida, that the party's candidate next year must not be a conservative and must whole-heartedly support the administration's liberal ideals.

President's Message

The president, in a momentous message read to the delegates last night by Pitt Tyson Maner, head of the younger group, served unmistakable notice that he wanted his successor in office to continue his policies, or he would "walk out" on the party.

"If we nominate conservative candidates, or lip-service candidates, on a straddlebug platform, I personally for my own self respect and because of my long service to, and belief in, liberal democracy, will find it impossible to have an active part in such an unfortunate suicide of the old democratic party," he told the convention.

The delegates broke into wild applause and were joined by a number of veteran political warriors seated on the platform.

Sen. Pepper, hitherto a firm third-term advocate for the president, retrenched slightly from his usual stand to keynote the convention with the following remark:

"A third term for Roosevelt ideas,

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Three youths on their way from New York to Chicago where one of them was going to see his mother, preparatory to joining the army had a bitter experience early one morning this week on the New-Castle-Harlansburg road. When in front of the residence of Mrs. Hugh Robinson, their car left the road, overturned, and crashed against a telephone pole. It was 4 o'clock in the morning, but Mrs. Robinson and her son, Samuel, took one of the youths to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where a bad scalp wound was sewed up. He was then able to leave. The others were uninjured. Their car, a new one, was badly wrecked but they made some kind of a deal for a second hand car and started back to New York. Their names were not secured.

The gas station population in the Youngstown hill district is to be further increased by the erection of a big station by Elmer and Walsh, Inc., of this city. They have just purchased two acres of land from Eli M. Byler at Parkstown Corners, on which work has already begun on buildings. The site embraces 272 feet frontage on the south side of the road, a short distance east of the Byler residence.

There is nothing that irritates the taxpayer more than frauds upon the relief department, such as was recently revealed in the court sentence here of a man who had succeeded in chiseling a large sum from the department. One wonders how this could have happened, but it is explained on the grounds that false representations were made to the department. Even at that, it is hard to see how it should have been carried on for such a long period without detection. Everybody wants to see the really needy taken care of,

More Than Two Hundred Attend School Reunion

Annual Martin Gantz Affair At Downtown Church Proves Bigger Than Ever

C. W. HERMAN HESS MAKES SNAPPY M. C.

Attendance at the seventh annual Martin Gantz school reunion in the First Christian church Thursday shot to 208, which is something over former years. More than were expected attended the dinner and the committee made a scramble for horses, planks and chairs to set up an extra table.

It was a huge, howling success, and proves that the Spirit of Martin Gantz lives on. There may be a gas station and hamburg stand where the old school used to be, but what is gone is not forgotten. The old gang had a good time last night and will meet again next year at the same place.

Hess Is Toastmaster

C. W. Herman Hess presided in the absence of the reunion president, Charlie Andrews, who a few days ago got the itch to go fishin' in Canada and in spite of everything, was simply unable to resist.

School Board To 'Stick To Guns' On Tuition Bills

Insist Wayne Township Make A $10,000 Part Payment Before Taking Students

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 11—In regard to barring high school tuition pupils from delinquent districts, members of the Ellwood City Board of Education at their August meeting last evening agreed to "stick to their guns" until the required payments are made.

Until the matter is agreeably settled, the Ellwood board will not fill the vacancies in the teaching staff for the reason that the teachers will not be needed if the pupils are barred.

Koppel, Franklin and Perry Township school districts are paid up and a satisfactory payment of some $3,000 from North Sewickley township is expected this week.

The district is facing the biggest problem in Wayne township, which is $14,000 in arrears and who the local board declares must make a $10,000 payment if the pupils are not to be excluded. It was said that the Wayne board has received a special appropriation for $1500 for the payment and that they are endeavoring to secure permission to float a $6,000 bond issue against their uncollected taxes of the past three years. If they can raise a payment of $7,500 and make definite arrangements for taking care of the coming year, their pupils will likely be permitted

Babbling an all but incredible story of how he had lured two high school girls from their Miami, Fla., homes, slew one with knife and gun when she protested his advances, and held the other a prisoner by his savage threats, Herbert Goddard, alias Charles Jefferson, radio announcer, confessed to kidnap and murder as he was held in a West Palm Beach, Fla., jail. Goddard confessed he killed Miss Frances Ruth Dunn near Boca Raton, Fla., after he had lured Miss Dunn and Miss Jean Bolton from Miami with a promise of a screen test to be given in Palm Beach, Fla.

"Nothing To Live For"—Wants To Get Things Over With Soon As Possible

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN SOUTHERN TOWN

(International News Service)

BOCA RATON, Fla., Aug. 11—Charles R. Jefferson, confessed kidnaper of two movie-struck young Miami girls, one of whom was brutally attacked and murdered, was said by authorities today to be almost anxious to pay for his crime.

Jefferson, a man of many aliases who earned substantial salaries for years by brilliant work in the movie and radio fields, was quoted as saying:

"I've got nothing to live for, so let's get things over with as soon as possible."

Well Guarded

Until late yesterday, the suspect was being held for safekeeping in jail at West Palm Beach, but last night after a crowd began gathering he was removed secretly to another place, reportedly Miami's sky-scraper prison. At a coroner's inquest yesterday he was ordered held for the grand jury on first degree murder charges. Because mob violence was feared, Jefferson was not taken to the hearing.

Announcement of Finnessy's selection was released by local council officers following a special meeting of the executive committee's membership. The New Yorker was selected from a group of three candidates, after months of intensive consideration.

Long an active boys' work leader, Finnessy associated himself with the Boy Scout movement as a volunteer in the Steuben Area council (New York state) in 1930. Shortly he was advanced to that council's commissionership.

Soon after becoming commissioner, he went abroad with a party of scouts to participate in the international Boy Scout jamboree in Holland. Court Refuses Injunction In Liquor Cases

Judge W. Walter Braham Dismisses Cases Against County Commissioners

LOCAL OPTION ISSUE WILL GO ON BALLOTS

Judge W. Walter Braham handed down an opinion at court this morning in which he refused to enjoin the county commissioners from placing the local option issue on ballots for Wampum and Union township at the coming primary.

An injunction was asked by Mary Pelloni of Wampum and Henry Du Puy. At the hearing the principal contention of their attorney, Samuel L. Clark, was that the law provided that 60 days elapse between the date of the primary and the general election, and that there would only be 57 days.

County Solicitor William McElwee, Jr., for the county commissioners took the view that the act referred to the filing of the petition for a local option election and not to the 60 days intervening between the date of the primary and the general election.

Discusses Act

In his opinion Judge Braham discusses the liquor control and beverage acts with their relations to each other, and also the intent of the legislature in passing the acts. He holds that it is absurd to believe that the legislature intended that 60 days elapse between the primary and the general election.

The intent of the legislature was, he holds, that the people should have a right to vote on local option, and that it is the duty of the courts to see that this right is not taken away from them.

He holds that the 60 days referred to in the act means that the petitions for a local option election must be filed 60 days before the primary. The petitions in the cases before the court were regularly filed and under the opinion the county commissioners can go ahead and place the issue on the ballot.

Ellwood City Jammed For Firemen's Parade

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 11.—With all the snap and precision of an army drill, hundreds of western Pennsylvania firemen and auxiliartians, resplendent in gay, colorful and conservative uniforms, kept in snappy formation by 45 uniformed drum and bugle corps of various kinds, each in itself a highlight, staged the annual parade of the 46th convention on Thursday afternoon in this city.

40,000 Visitors

The mammoth parade, which moved over a three-mile route in three hours, attracted an estimated crowd of 40,000 visitors to the city and only the highest praise and enthusiasm for the completeness and success of the gigantic spectacle was heard.

Following the usual custom, last year's convention city, Uniontown, led the parade in which 129 companies participated. Ranging from the latest, streamlined equipment to almost antique types, almost every type of fire-fighting apparatus was proudly displayed with some companies having four and five pieces of equipment, including racy squad cars, emergency trucks, light and heavy duty pumpers and hook and ladder types in the line of march.

Interspersing the parade with gay and amusing exhibitions were clown bands by the Stowe township and Creighton departments and comedy acts and equipment by the Trafford and Millvale entries. Universal department had one of the first fire trucks in the parade and attracting much interest was the first piece of

Britain Agrees To Jap Demands

Will Deliver Chinese Wanted For Murder—Seen As Bid For Peace

By RUSSELL F. ANDERSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 11.—In a striking new bid for peaceful negotiation of crucial questions besetting the world, Great Britain today agreed to hand over to Japanese jurisdiction a group of Chinese long wanted by Tokyo authorities for the murder of a Nipponese customs inspector at Tientsin.

Led to Blockade

Refusal of the British government to surrender the alleged terrorists weeks ago led to a Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions at Tientsin and a subsequent worsening of Anglo-Japanese relations that led Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain recently to threaten dispatch of a fleet to Asiatic waters.

In announcing the decision, the British foreign office emphatically repudiated suggestions that it represented to the slightest degree any new "capitulation" by Great Britain to the totalitarian states.

"There is no bargaining and no surrender involved," a spokesman said.

"This is entirely a judicial matter.

No Other Connection

"It has no connection with current Anglo-Japanese diplomatic negotiations in Tokyo. It is being handled entirely separately from other loacl incidents as regards Tientsin."

Despite this disclaimer, it was the unanimous opinion of diplomatic observers that Britain had decided upon this step as a major move to clarify the increasingly difficult situation in the far east.

Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, Britain's ambassador in Tokyo, was instructed to inform Japan that examination of new evidence by British le-

They're seeing things they have read about, canyons and mountains and streams, places they studied in number four, places of long year dreams. Must Nominate Liberal Ticket In 1940

Either New Dealer Or Will Take Walk

May Be First Notice That Roosevelt Will Not Run For Third Term

SEN. PEPPER REPEATS HINT TO YOUNG DEMS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt today had served notice on the Democratic party it must nominate a liberal New Deal ticket in 1940 or he "will take a walk".

May Be Hint

His message to the Pittsburgh convention of Young Democrats—announcing he will not support a conservative Democrat for the presidency next year—constituted an indirect but strong hint that he will not seek a third term in the White House. It marked the first time the president has publicly stated any part of his plans for 1940.

The hint was repeated when Senator Claude Pepper, White House confidant and staunch third term advocate, told the convention "irrespective of a third term for the president himself, the Young Democrats of America demand a third term for Roosevelt's ideas." This was a distinct retreat for the Florida New Dealer, who has been demanding another term for the president.

The double-hint provoked immediate speculation on the president's classifications of Democratic potentialities—whether they fall into the liberal class or the banned conservative class. Washington politicos are divided as to whether the president was aiming a shot at Vice President John Nance Garner, along with the Harrisons, Clarks and Tydings of his party. One group contended the president was turning "thumbs down" on Garner, a "conservative" who is leading Democratic presidential polls all over the nation.

Another group, including some close friends of the president, asserted he has never "black-listed" Garner, even though the vice president has opposed his government spending plans. This group contended the statement was aimed at the Harrisons, Clarks, Tydings and at Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt.

Listing of McNutt, by this group, in the banned class follows the International News Service revelation that the White House "palace guard" is considering a movement to keep the security administrator from winning the nomination if the president does not run. The anti-McNutt move appears to indicate the "palace guards" either are uncertain whether the president will run or that they have secret information he does not now desire to run.

The president's true attitude toward McNutt is a mystery even to many of his closest associates. Most of the "insiders" believe he will never support McNutt—others are not so certain.

A formidable "dark horse," in view of the president's statement, seems to be Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, now back in Mr. Roosevelt's good graces following their break on the supreme court bill. There is a deep undercurrent for Wheeler, arising in the west and spreading eastward. He is an old-time liberal, having run on the late Robert M. La Follette's liberal ticket in the 1924 campaign.

FLORIDA SLAYER ANXIOUS TO PAY FOR GIRL MURDER

and elsewhere in southern Florida as full details of the terror visited for three days upon Ruth Frances Dunn, 17-year-old high school beauty, and her chum, Jean Bolton, 19, blond and pretty night club singer, became known.

Found At Beach

Miss Dunn's body was found yesterday on a lonely beach near Boca Raton. She had been stabbed several times in the throat and body and shot through the head. Her body showed evidence of brutal treatment and authorities said she had been criminally assaulted.

Miss Bolton was not harmed, but was under treatment of a physician today in her Miami home for shock. It was she who gave the first alarm, causing Jefferson's arrest and leading officers to the spot where the Dunn girl's body was found.

The Bolton girl staggered into the Boca Raton fire department early yesterday, dazed and terrified. She sobbed out her story. Soon after Jefferson was picked up as he walked down a highway near the town and then Miss Bolton led a party to the beach where Miss Dunn's body lay in a thicket. Close by was the stalled automobile in which the girls were driven away from Miami last Monday.

Hoodwinked Girls

According to the statement attributed to Jefferson by police, pieced together with additional details given by the Bolton girl, Jefferson hoodwinked the two youngsters into believing he could obtain screen tests for them.

The first step in the "build-up," Jefferson was supposed to have told the girls, was the obtaining of photographs to be shown film executives. These photos were to be made in Miami, and it was toward Miami the trio headed Monday.

Some 35 miles along the road, near Boca Raton, Miss Bolton said, Jefferson drove the car off onto a lonely lane, drew a gun, ordered the girls to be quiet, and tied their hands with adhesive tape.

Miss Dunn became frightened and screamed, her friend said, and Jefferson knocked her unconscious with a pistol blow over the head. Then he dragged the inert girl into a thicket. Miss Bolton was able to tell little of what happened to her friend, except that she heard her moaning and crying. Jefferson came back to the car, and told her he had "finally beaten some sense" into the Dunn girl, Miss Bolton related.

OLD TIMERS LOOK FORWARD TO PICNIC

even as far away as California and Florida. Vacations are planned by these Old Timers so that they will be in New Castle on the day of the picnic and reunion, and it is one day that has been set aside when old friends may gather and greet each other, many after long years of separation.

The first Old Timers Day was observed at Cascade Park on August 23, 1907, and proved such an outstanding success that it has been made an annual celebration since then, this being the 33rd year for the event.

INSURANCE AGENT FORCER TO SHARE BOND COMMISSION

bute" in the form of commission "kickbacks" on highway bonding business in western Pennsylvania.

Noel, quoting Skok, said that the "primary reason" for the 10 per cent "kickback" was that "they had a working arrangement or were cooperating with the highway department and could assist my contractors if they might need it."

Noel said that Skok first approached him in the spring of 1935 and that he then refused to enter into the arrangement. In the spring of 1937, however, Noel said he agreed to have Skok go in with him. Noel said his contractors suggested he "cooperate" with Skok.

To Get 10%

Skok was to receive "10 per cent of my commission," Noel said, but Noel was to execute the contractor's bond. Noel said he made the decision for himself and denied his contractor directed him to split his commission.

Pursuant to the arrangement, Noel said he paid to the Kirk agency on July 15, 1937, $7.26 (by check). On Nov. 15, 1938, Noel testified he paid Skok $16.20 "under the 10 per cent arrangement." The Kirk agency, the witness charged, did no work entitling them to the commission.

Noel told the jury that he neglected to pay one commission for which Skok asked him, but that nothing was done about it. Later, Noel testified he executed three other bonds for W. L. Dunn, of Cochranton, Pa., and still split his commissions with the Kirk agency.

Dunn encouraged him to split his commissions "for business reasons," Noel asserted.

Dunn Follows

Noel was followed to the stand by Dunn, who testified that Skok informed him that the Kirk agency "could be of assistance to him through the highway department" and ask him for his business. Dunn declared that he told Skok he preferred to have Noel handle his work. The Kirk agency, he said, never did any work for him.

A brief clash between Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, counsel for Kirk, enlivened the trial. Eaton became aroused when Dunn refused to admit he read four letters received by his firm from the Kirk agency.

"Why you received everyone of them," shouted Eaton, angrily throwing the letters on the table. "Didn't you?"

Dunn admitted he had received them but would not admit he read them through. He said his secretary "might have" read the letters.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS LIKELY TO NAME HOMER MAT ADAMS

irrespective of a third term for Roosevelt himself—that is the keynote of this convention."

Looks Like Adams

Meantime, Homer Mat Adams, pre-convention favorite for the presidency of the junior organization, virtually sewed up the race when one of his stronger opponents, J. Pat Beacom, of West Virginia, threw his unqualified support behind the Illinois candidate in the interests of party harmony.

Beacom's action occasioned considerable surprise since it was reported that he and the other candidates had formed a coalition to "stop Adams." More strength was given Adams also by the Tennessee, Florida and Oregon delegations who announced they would vote in his favor.

Seen As Threat

Roosevelt's message, which gave no hint of a possible third term, was construed as a definite threat of a break between the New Deal, under his leadership, and the more conservative elements with whom the name of Vice President John N. Garner most often has been associated.

Today, the convention hears from a number of distinguished speakers of national importance. They include U. S. Sen. Alben Barkley, of Kentucky; Aubrey Williams, director of the N.Y.A.; U. S. Sen. M. M. Neely, of West Virginia, solicitor general Robert N. Jackson, Federal Works Administrator John W. Carmody and former Gov. Bibbs Graves of Alabama.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, who is being boomed by the Indiana delegation as a potential New Deal presidential candidate, will be on the program this evening, as will Pennsylvania's junior senator, Joseph F. Guffey.

DELIGHTFUL EVENT AT H. HAMMOND HOME

When a group gets together for a reunion it is usually something to remember, but when friends who lived as neighbors in a certain locality practically all their lives and in time drifted to different cities are given an opportunity to do a bit of reminiscing, it is indeed an occasion. This was true when Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Hammond extended hospitality in their home, 421 East Leasure avenue, Wednesday, entertaining guests who lived near one another at Sandy Lake.

Mrs. Hammond proved a most gracious hostess and the group, numbering upwards of fifty, enjoyed a delightfully informal program from 2 o'clock until early evening. At 5:30 o'clock a tureen dinner was served at tables prettily arranged about the lawn, and while greetings were exchanged among some who hadn't met for a period of twenty-five and thirty years, others were chatting over instances of "remember when —." Games and contests provided further entertainment.

However, the climax came when several of those present, turned the affair into a birthday party honoring Mrs. Hammond, taking her by complete surprise. It was most appropriately observed and she received many gifts.

Included in the guest list were a number from the immediate vicinity who formerly resided at Sandy Lake and others from out-of-town, were as follows: Mrs. Eva Schfield Rhodes, Mrs. Archie Barnes, Mrs. W. A. Boyd, Mrs. Nettie Dunlap Rhodes, Mrs. John B. Defrance, Mrs. Mabelle McClure Gilmore, Mrs. Florence McClure Parker, Mrs. Maude Rhodes Mowry, Mrs. Ralph Turner, Mrs. Anna Egbert Wygal, Mrs. Homer McMullen, Mrs. Byrl Runkle, Mrs. Herbert Patton, Mrs. Myra Weber Vogan, Mrs. Alice McClimans Marshall, Mrs. Frank P. Craig, Mrs. Avonell Mohney Mowry, Mrs. Bess Osborn Corll, Cash Vogan, Mrs. Marian Parker Moore and Miss Nell Patton, all of Sandy Lake; Mrs. Maude Niece Paterson, Mrs. Nettie Niece Philips, Mrs. Frances Philips McCafferty, Joann McCafferty and Miss Frances Mitchell, of Butler; Mrs. Nelle Niece Timblin, Mrs. W. E. Niece and Miss Mary Hanna, of Grove City; Mrs. Ralph W. Simcox and Miss Virginia Robinson, of Beaver; Misses Jean and Virginia Patton, of Oil City; J. D. Rees, Mrs. Florence Whitling Reese and daughter Rosalind, of Greenville; Minette Turner and Mrs. Jaunita Wygal Billings, of New York City; Elizabeth Philips, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. George Timblin, of Youngstown, O., Bess Potter, of Warren, O.

Mrs. Hammond and her mother, Mrs. Frank P. Craig, were aided throughout the day by the following aides: Mrs. Maude R. Mowry, Mrs. Herbert Patton. Mrs. Ralph Turner, Mrs. Avonell M. Mowry, Mrs. Marian P. Moore, Mrs. Frances P. McCafferty, Virginia Robinson, Jean and Virginia Patton, Mrs. Juanita W. Billings and Elizabeth Philips. Others attended from New Castle.

It is hoped to make this an annual occasion with additional residents here, originally from Sandy Lake, joining in the celebration.

M. A. O. Kensington

M. A. O. Kensington club members gathered at Cascade park on Thursday morning for a breakfast. Mrs. E. L. McCune of Sandy Lake was a special guest. After the serving, the concessions of the park were enjoyed.

August 24, members will enjoy a similar event at the park.

W. E. CLUB HAS DINNER PARTY

W. E. club associates were entertained at a suburban tea room on Thursday evening for their regular meeting. Mrs. Melvin Reinhart was hostess and the feature of the evening was the serving at 7 o'clock of a delicious chicken dinner. This marked the wedding anniversary of Mrs. Reinhart and she was presented with a handsome gift.

Cards were enjoyed and the winners were Mrs. John Weber, Mrs. Harold Good and Mrs. Clarence Hollis . Dancing was a later pastime.

Mrs. Myron Bollard will entertain August 16 at her home on Northview avenue.

MEANING—NOT SO MUCH

A SOP to Filipino uneasiness at the prospect of complete governmental separation from the United States in 1946 was thrown by the retiring congress in the passage of a bill presuming a sincere effort will be made to cushion trade relationship between the two nations well before the tie is cut.

Congress proposes that by 1944, or earlier, a new study be made with a view to modifying the present law, which is a threat to exports to this country from the Philippines. It is not, of course, binding on any ensuing congress, and therefore can be taken at best as a gesture of good will.

Absolute independence was the goal of a Filipino group long before we paid Spain $20,000,000 for the Islands after the conclusion of the fracas in 1898. Forty years after the event it is in fair way of establishment, but already it is being viewed with misgivings by some of the most ardent separatists.

For this there are two important reasons: First is the prospect of losing the American market for sugar at the behest of the cane and beet sugar interests of the United States and the American banking interests dominant in Cuban sugar; second, the fear, despite the assurance of General MacArthur that the islands can be defended, lest Japan grab what we relinquish.

The natural resources of the islands have never been fully developed, but it would be a singular commentary on our governmental ideals if we abandoned them to quick economic ruin or absorption by conquest.

MR. WELLS SHEDS A TEAR

Take it from H. G. Wells, the world is going to pot, unless ——. And it is a great, big "unless."

Apparently were his new book, "The Fate of Homo Sapiens," available here and now, it would send enough cold chills up and down the spine to permit anybody to defy the enervating heat and humidity of August. Publication in the United States is not yet announced. But when Mr. Wells turns on the tear ducts and voices the fear that humanity, "which began in a cave, will end in the disease-soaked ruins of a slum," it is something to keep the cables humming.

He leaves war-threatened, dictator-ruled Man one faint loophole, namely, the persistence in the United States and the spread abroad of the Rooseveltian idea. Only that, and nothing more. And he laments that nothing is being prepared here in the event of Mr. Roosevelt's passing.

Clearly, the author of "Tono Bungay" and "The War of the Worlds" needs consolation. As to the situation here when Mr. Roosevelt is no longer the occupant of the White House, he might consult Messrs. John D. M. Hamilton and James A. Farley, both just now available in Europe.

But this never will suffice. Best hope for speedy convalescence would be for his family doctor to prescribe for the septuagenarian Mr. Wells one of those four-day British week-ends with the octogenarian George Bernard Shaw, who never gives up, but is obviously confident Superman is just around the corner.

DRESS REHEARSAL OR WAR?

By the end of August, according to authoritative sources, Continental Europe will have more than 8,000,000 men under arms. This circumstance is given added significance by reason of reports from Berline that throughout Germany there is increased tension, arising from the belief that Fuehrer Hitler will not delay the fulfilment of his plans for the seizure of Danzig.

Many evidences which indicate imminent action are cited. Most important, of course, is the mobilization of 2,000,000 men, a total which will be increased by 500,000 before the end of the month. Holiday excursions planned by the Strength Through Joy labor organizations have been cancelled, with no reason given. Schools in frontier districts have been instructed not to reopen next week—the traditional end of the German vacation. Through press, radio and the spoken word, the campaign of hate against Poland has been intensified. Sale of gasoline to private motorists has been curtailed severely, while extraordinary measures have been adopted to bring about an increase in coal production.

Meanwhile, throughout Europe there is in progress what amounts to general mobilization of men, equipment and supplies, while in the Far East a diversion is being created by Japan, in accordance with axis tactics, to distract Russia and Britain from concentration upon European developments.

From this situation war may not develop; but it almost appears as if every nation in Europe expects war, not in six months, a year or two years, but within a month. If these fears are not fulfilled there will be substance for the belief that the age of miracles has not passed.

It was Cordell Hull, someone recalls, who wrote the federal income tax law in '13. But can't we forgive and forget?

We don't know why poets in general say so little about August. Maybe it's the usual vacation time for the poetry editor.

A large bank now operates the Chicago White Sox team. The job of auditor of foul balls sounds attractive, for these lazy August afternoons.

A single housing project in the Bronx calls for 97,000 doors—only a few less than a tight delegate tries, in the convention hotel, while hunting a lost pal.

A sports historian says that 50 years ago people were rising, as they still do, between halves in the seventh inning. Probably to descend upon an umpire.

For Europe sports are suggested as the long-sought moral equivalent of war. The boyhood game of duck-on-the-rock might do—with Adolf as the duck.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DON'T WRAP CHILD'S BANNERS IN CREPE

It was near the end of a perfect day in June. The sun was slowly gliding out of sight. Coreen and Calvin, in a buggy, were drawn along the lovely road by faithful Dobbin. All was well with them and with the world. Calvin felt it was the time to ask the all-important question, and he did. The answer pleased him more than he could tell.

But as they drove on there came a silence. Up the steep hill Dobbin climbed with them, and down into the winding valley road, where by and by Calvin asked, "Coreen, why don't you say something?" She replied, "I think I have already said too much."

Don't Spoil It All

A mother, attempting to describe the indifference of her boy of twelve to his school work, said, "lately he has grown crazy over magic. He will go to his room and work for hours learning tricks and practicing on long and foolish speeches for a show."

"There is your opportunity," I advised, "to drop everything and enjoy his performance when he volunteers to give it, so—"

"Oh, we do," she interrupted. "After he had so performed the other evening I said to him, "why don't you work that way at your studies?"

She said too much. She should not have added the comment about his studies. All she had gained by observing his performance was lost, and more too, by the stab she added after he had finished.

Says A Little Too Much

Later she continued, "when he brought home his grades the other day he began by calling my attention to those which he had raised. I asked him why he did not say something about the other grades."

Frequently a parent will say to a child something like this: "How good-natured you have been this evening. You have made me happy by your smiles," only to spoil it by continuing, "why can't you always act this way?"

Wrap No Banner In Crepe

We psychologists have long recognized a mental law called "Association by Contrast." Just remember that you are inclined to think of the former bad behavior of your child when you see some conduct in him you admire. Be on your guard. Don't let yourself engage in such practices.

If you want to help your child, show your appreciation of the things he does which you like and, most particularly at that time, don't even let yourself recall his wrongs. Don't dim his victories by the shadows of his earlier defeats. Don't wrap his banners up in crepe. Help him unfurl them to the breeze and shout "excelsior."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

IT HAPPENS SOMETIMES.

About fifteen years ago, Oscar Rasbach, young Sierra Madre, California pianist, sought relaxation after a hard day's work of teaching, in a bit of composition of his own. He had been reading Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" and thought it might make a song.

He loved the mountains and the out of doors and the thought of trees brought visions to him. He translated what he felt and visioned it into music and found it pleasant occupation. The result was so good that he determined to make it better.

For a long time he worked on the piece whenever he had time. Then he sent it to the publisher.

Nothing much happened for a couple of years, but then Schumann-Heink sang the song and it suddenly became popular. His royalties jumped from very little to several thousand dollars, and year by year they grew bigger.

Now Oscar has a handsome home in San Marino, California, and "Trees" is one of the best-known and best-loved songs of the whole world.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: What is the procedure for giving the bride away? —Judy.

Answer: In the greater number of marriages, the bride must be given away. In such cases, the father of the bride does not go to his pew after giving her to the groom but instead he remains standing a little to the rear and to the left of the bride. When the clergyman asks "Who giveth this woman in marriage?" he should advance to the bride, who gives him her right hand. He then says: "I do." The father then takes his place in the front pew on the left, beside his wife. Giving the bride away is a function usually assumed by her father; but if for some reason he cannot do so, the eldest brother or next nearest of kin may.

What's What At A Glance

Senator Tydings Is Possibility.
Prominent In Anti-New Deal Ranks.
Was Termed Betrayer By President.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, like Vice President Garner, owes a lot of his prominence as a 1940 Democratic possibility to what was intended to be unfavorable advertising to him.

Perhaps it's an exaggeration to speak of Tydings as presidentially very prominent, but he's due to be a favorite son, anyway. And he certainly is prominent in the ranks of anti-New Deal Democracy. The Free State already is coming out for him. If anti-New Dealers dominate the next Democratic national convention, they can't find any other candidate more anti-New Dealerish than he is.

Supposing that hostile advertising is good advertising, the advertising Tydings has received has been worse and therefore should be better for him than Garner's advertising.

The comparatively unoutstanding John L. Lewis denounced Garner as an "evil old man". The relatively pre-eminent President Roosevelt referred to Tydings as a New Deal "betrayer". Surely it's worse (or better) to be bawled out by the president of the United States than by the United Mine Workers' president.

It's true enough that Garner's prominence at present is superior to Tydings', but Tydings' boom (for whatever it may turn out to be worth) is considerably younger than Garner's. Give it time to develop.

And Garner unmistakably is at one disadvantage. Part of Lewis' charge against him is incontrovertible. Lewis not only said he was "evil", but "old". He's old, all right. President Roosevelt said that Tydings is a "betrayer", but he couldn't call him old; he's in the prime of his youngish manhood.

Two counts against Garner! only one count against Tydings!

Millard's Big Handicap

Millard's big handicap is that he represents a state with but a few votes in a national convention or the electoral college. As a favorite son he isn't a son with much numerical parentage back of him.

Garner has a good chunk of it. He doesn't equal New York or Pennsylvania or Ohio or Illinois or Indiana, but he's up in the major dust storms as compared with Maryland.

Nope—

Disregarding F. D., as a third-termer, and John N. Garner and Bennett Champ Clark and various other Democratic aspirants, I'd bet against Tydings.

Rather Remote Qualifications

Yet he has his rather remote qualifications.

The New Deal cracked its back trying to purge him, and couldn't do it.

There isn't a New Dealer to tie him.

Any anti-New Dealer Democratic or Republican would be "fer" him.

If you're a conservative, of either party, you're pro-Tydings.

I'd gamble on him in Maryland any time—but not nationally. And yet, if the country should turn conservative—he's a moderate conservative.

Sometimes I think that a moderate conservative is a liberal—more than a RADICAL liberal.

Back to Prohibition

I think back to the days of prohibition—when Tydings was a booster for liberty.

The south, essentially, was the prohibition country.

Tydings, essentially a southerner, had the nerve to stand wetty pat.

Now he has the nerve to stand pat on federal spending.

John Garner has as good nerve as he has.

Other interests are involved now, though.

New Deal? President Roosevelt? Versus Garner? Anti-New Deal? Versus Tydings Anti-violently New Deal? Versus all sorts of Republicanism? Versus the insignificant mavericks?

Lock what's coming.

SUMMER STORM

Blue sky and blazing sun had grown
A form of suffering all their own
And had begun to taint the air
With mortal mutterings of despair.
Then came the storm clouds, thunder-voiced,
And we beheld them and rejoiced.

Rain which had fretted us in spring,
Was now a sweet refreshing thing!
Gray, threatening clouds, so oft bewailed,
With shouts of joy were loudly hailed
And rich and poor and high and low
Rushed out to feel the west wind blow.

Were all things lovely; all tasks light
And were the skies forever bright;
Were never anguish or despair
Or pain or sorrow ours to bear,
From pleasure we should turn away
And beg to have our skies made gray.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

Quite Beyond Repair

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.

Since the adjournment of Congress certain observers have voiced the view that the Democratic split is not beyond repair. If, it is said, Mr. Roosevelt will renounce his third term ambitions and, recognizing that public opinion has turned against his spending policies, "conform and conciliate", the breech can be healed.

This is a good enough idea except that it has neither foundation nor substance. Almost before it got into print it was rendered absurd by quite unmistakable evidence that Mr. Roosevelt intends to do none of of those things. So far from recognizing that the public has revolted against pump priming—even when it is called "Government investment"—the President has expressed his belief to a dozen friends that members of Congress who voted to kill his "invisible spending" program misrepresented the sentiment of their states and districts, which they will find out to their sorrow when they return home.

In other words, the President's attitude, as expressed to Senator Barkley, to Mr. Rayburn and others of his slightly frayed and considerably dismayed legislative leaders, is that he knows the sentiment of the people in the districts considerably better than the congressmen who represent them and that the congressmen who voted against him will come back to the next session very much chastened and far more amenable. Moreover, urbane as he may appear at press conferences, privately he is deeply resentful toward the revolting Democrats and itches to make them suffer. Certainly, he has conveyed that impression to those with whom he has talked and who, in turn, reflect his feeling.

So far as "conforming" is concerned, the President is represented by those who know him best to have no such thought. Instead he is determined to push his rejected "invisible spending" program at the next session. One of the most consistently inspired journalists reports that the "rebellion" simply means that the "inner circle", with Mr. Roosevelt's support, is already at work preparing a new program which will be "bigger and better than the one wrecked". The idea is to present next January "a set of co-ordinated economic and social proposals upon which the New Deal can stand firmly in 1940." An integral part of these, now being discussed, is a new old-age pension plan by which an "adequate" pension will be assured to everyone over 6 years old without the necessity of proving poverty. It sounds like the Townsend plan, but the statement is made that it will be nothing "so crude as that".

As to "conciliation", all one need do is read the speech made a few hours before adjournment by Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, who is in closest touch with the White House and a recognized administration spokesman. It is not often that a senator is called a liar and a coward to his face on the floor of the Senate. In fact, it cannot be recalled that one was ever so referred to before. Yet, the Congressional Record shows that that happened to Mr. Pepper. That rubber-stamp statesman, who came to Washington through a combination of WPA and Townsend voters, had made a venomous and violent attack upon those who had voted against the spending schemes, picturing them as inhuman monsters, inspired by greed, hate and politics.

To many who listened it seemed one of the cheapest and most degrading pieces of demagoguery ever heard in the Senate. When Mr. Pepper finished Senator Bailey of North Carolina rose and asked the presiding officer if it would be out of order (as he very well knew it would be) to characterize a senator's remarks as "mendacious and cowardly". Upon being told that it would be, Senator Bailey said: "Very well, I then shall say it to him privately". This passage between a recognized White House spokesman and ardent New Dealer and one of the outstanding anti-New Deal Democratic senators seems to make the "conciliation" suggestion more or less ridiculous, particularly when it is perfectly well known that their utterances represented not only their individual views, but those of their groups.

The truth, of course, is that this Democratic split can no more be healed than could the split in 1896 and 1900 between the Bryan free-silver Democrats and the Sound Money Democrats. The basic doctrines of the New Deal clash so sharply with the convictions of conservative Democrats, and its radical alliances are so open and offensive that bridging the gap between them is conceivable only if one or the other, conceding complete error, surrenders. As neither

"Sinister Forces" Are At Work In U. S. To Undermine Nation

(International News Service)

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 11.—A warning that "sinister forces" were seeking to undermine America's democracy was made Thursday by Asst. Secretary of War Louis Johnson as he addressed the 21st annual convention of the Pennsylvania American Legion.

He charged that foreign influences "have smuggled themselves into our country to bore at our foundations from within," and vigorously urged support for President Roosevelt's military expansion and national defense program.

"In 1917-1918, the dangers that threatened America came from overseas," Johnson asserted. "Today, there are sinister forces at work, principally of foreign origin, that would erect ideological frontiers between our citizens, pit neighbors against neighbor undermine our American spirit of tolerance and understanding and destroy America by propaganda."

Johnson, declaring that "American citizenship is priceless," called for nationwide response to the challenge that the power of the Democratic governments was fading.

One Of Bulwarks

"We are one of the few bulwarks that still stand in this highly agitated world for personal and religious liberty," he stated. "We are still the hope of all civilization.

"We have a stake in the world second to none. It includes the homes, the lives, the families, the properties and the rights of 130,000,000 people, occupying an area of 4,000,000 square miles, possessing one-half the total wealth of the world. It includes a standard of living unequaled in any other part of the globe."

Peace is the fundamental desire of all Americans, Johnson said, adding:

"We are anxious to remain at peace with every nation in the world. We have made every effort to cultivate patience and self-restraint in dealing with our neighbors in America and with nations across the sea.

Have Avoided Force

"We have avoided force or the threat of force in our governmental policies. We have stood ready to cooperate with the rest of the world in the reduction and limitation of overburdening military armaments. We have extended an open hand in friendship to all nations."

Johnson warned, however, that peaceful moves by the United States have been spurned by "some nations not as eager as we are to cultivate friendship and understanding."

For that reason, he added, the United States "must keep well armed. We must be ready, not for offense, but for defense; not for aggression, but for protection; not to wage war, but to keep out of war."

"Strongly armed," Johnson emphasized, "we are free to promote the ideals of Americanism and to protect our people and our government, both against boring from within and against attack from without."

Scouters' Day At Camp John Phillips

Plan To Hold Camp Court Of Honor Tonight—Many To Be Advanced In Rank

(Special To The News)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, Aug. 11. — One of the most successful events held this season at the Boy Scout camp was the Scouters' Night program conducted Thursday evening, in the Indian Village, here at camp.

Starting with a supper at 6 p. m., in the camp mess hall, the Scouters, their families and friends, began what turned out to be quite an unusual and exciting meeting.

Dr. G. S. Bennett, president of the Lawrence County Boy Scout Council served in the capacity of master of ceremonies. He called upon Nick Casillo who talked about the camp and the boys who have been in camp this year.

Rev. A. M. Stump, past president of the council, spoke briefly to the group. Ralph F. Davis, Scout Commissioner was in charge of the games and events and kept the crowd entertained until dark.

At dark the crowd adjourned to the activities building where motion pictures were shown by Jack Boyle. The pictures were of conservation and wild life.

Plans were made to hold a Court of Honor session tonight. It is expected that this will be one of the larger camp courts, with many of the boys coming up for advancement in rank.

HEART TROUBLE IS CAUSE OF DEATH

PORTERSVILLE, Pa., August 11. —Mrs. Alice Burns, aged 33, of Portersville, died Wednesday following a short illness. Death was the result of a heart condition.

Mrs. Burns had come to Portersville with her husband, Max G. Burns, who was employed on the construction work at Portersville on the new road through that district. She had resided in Portersville three months.

Surviving are her husband and her mother, Fannie Harpool, of Pine Grove, Ky.

has the remotest thought of that, it hardly makes sense to talk about getting together.

This is not the kind of fight which can be compromised. The differences between the factions are too fundamental. Regardless of the third-term idea, which the "inner circle" will try to keep alive to the futile end, the clash will continue until the convention—and probably after. So far as the next session is concerned, the prevailing belief is that there will be more, not less, Democrats in revolt. Because Mr. Roosevelt is quite mistaken about one thing: He does not know more about the sentiment in the districts than members of the House. It is the other way around: If the latter are to keep politically alive, they have to know. They can't afford to make a mistake about the way the people feel.

Japs Forced To Turn Gold Over To Government

Action Parallels Rationing Of Dairy Products And Poultry

OWNERSHIP OF GOLD FORBIDDEN

(International News Service)

TOKYO.—Parallel with rationing of dairy products and poultry, the government today inaugurated a nation-wide campaign compelling all possessors of gold articles to register them with census takers.

Voluntary registration having failed, some people being suspected of hoarding as high as $27,000 in gold articles, the Finance Ministry has units operating in every village, town and city canvassing homes and offices.

In attempting to bring in more gold, Japan has inaugurated a movment wherein the ownership of gold articles, with few exceptions, is forbidden.

You can hold on to your gold teeth, needles used in medical instruments, keep the gold in your lightning rod, retain your gold fountain-pen point or any item too small to make gold extraction profitable and easy.

Otherwise, to keep ten new gold refineries busy providing the government with gold with which to buy war materials abroad, Japanese must sell all personal gold ornaments and articles.

The official list includes rings, earrings too, necklaces, cuff buttons and shirt studs, necktie pins, hairpins, watch cases in gold, spectacle rims (and Japan has more than any country in the world per capita), compacts, lipstick containers, cane handles (this will affect thousands of government bureaucrats), cigarette and cigar holders and cases, lighters, cups, ash trays, spoons, tea kettles (there must be hundreds of thousands in this land of religious tea ceremony), incense burners (this quota may run into millions together with the candle sticks used in temples), trophies, ornaments, paper weights, knives and seals.

Failure to register and sell the forgoing or falsification of the report, means a maximum fine of $150, confiscation of the goods and public face loosing as it would be looked upon as unpatriotic to fail to support the government's attempt to requisition the gold heirlooms of which there must be millions of dollars worth in ancient Japanese warehouses. Nearly every home or office has its private storage house.

People unwilling to sell will be compelled to do so under the mobilization law, the finance minister announced.

Do You Remember?

Compiled And Presented For Publication In The News By Fred B. Sankey, President Of Old Timer's Day Association

Old Timers Day Cascade Park, Wednesday, August 16, 1939.

Samuel Perry, born December 13, 1836, was a son of Andrew Perry and Nancy McConnell Perry, of Scottish ancestry, and came to the United States from County Down, Ireland, when 16 years of age. He enlisted as a private in Company A, 4th regiment, U. S. cavalry, in December of 1856, and later settled in New Castle, where he died in 1908. He was the father of Adalaide Perry, Lillian M. Perry, Anna R. Perry, Dr. Samuel W. Perry, Edward R. Perry and Lewis Andrew Perry. Grandchildren of Samuel Perry are Dr. David L. Perry, Dr. Samuel W. Perry, Jr., and Robert M. Perry, Ph. D., of Newark, N. J. Great-grandchildren are Ann Louise Perry, Susie Perry and Juliet Thorp Perry. The Perry family are all actively engaged in our community life.

E. I. Agnew, who came to New Castle in 1852, married Laura McGuffin. He was the cashier of Phillips Brothers bank, and after its absorption by the First National bank was associated with Phillips Brothers in their oil interests in Venango county. Under the administration of President James A. Garfield he was appointed postmaster here. E. I. Agnew was the father of Charles C. Agnew, William E. Agnew and Mary E. Agnew.

William E. Agnew was the first in the phosphate business for four years in Florida, and later was elected treasurer of Lawrence county. He married Carrie Hainer, daughter of J. Adam Hainer, who had a grocery store on the Diamond for many years.

J. Adam Hainer was the father of J. Russell Hainer, Elizabeth Hainer, Carrie Hainer, Emma Hainer, May Hainer, Kate Hainer, Adam Hainer, Jr., Charles Hainer and of Louis Hainer, former mayor of New Castle.

James F. Falls owned a large farm in Neshannock township, and he was the son of John Falls, who came here from County Down, Ireland, and settled among the early pioneers. He was the father of Mrs. Sarah Falls Newell, Mrs. Jean Falls Thomas, Miss Gertrude R. Falls and Miss Mary Alice Falls of Lakeland, Fla., and of Gillie F. Falls of this city. Great-grandchildren of John Falls are Gertrude Lucille Falls, Gillis D. Falls and Mary Alice Falls.

Mercer County Lyceum

The minutes of this organization show at a meeting held January 2, 1837, here in New Castle, a committee consisting of S. N. Semple, F. J. Clark and J. Emery, Esq., was appointed to report a revised and amended constitution. This action indicates that the lyceum had been in existence for some time prior to 1837. At the regular weekly meetings the proceedings, aside from routine business, usually consisted of a program which included a declamation or an essay, and a debate. At conclusion of the debate there was ordinarily a decision, either by persons appointed to act as judges or arbitrators, or by vote of the members present. At this meeting officers were elected, and the president-elect was Joseph Pollock, M. D. On a motion the president appointed the following committee of six gentlemen to discuss the question: "Is the vender of ardent spirits chargeable with the crimes of the drunk", and on the affirmative J. Emery, S. N. Sample and J. Alexander; on the negative A. C. Semple, J. Reynolds, Esq., and F. J. Clark. At the end of the debate held the following week, January 6th, the arbitrators decided the debate in favor of the negative side.

Doctor James K. Pollock was born in New Castle April 19, 1845. Practiced medicine on East street 51 years. One of the first doctors to serve Shenango Valley hospital, and the first president of the Old Timers association. He was the father of Prof. James K. Pollock at the University of Michigan, and Mrs. Rachael P. Taylor. Surviving Dr. James K. Pollock are five grandchildren: David, Verna and Maxine Taylor, Robert and Ann Pollock.

William Clark, son of Samuel and Margaret Hosack Clark, of Mercer, was one of New Castle's earliest settlers. His father, Samuel, joined the War of 1812 and fought on one of the battleships on Lake Erie, William came to New Castle shortly after his uncle, David Crawford, the editor of the first New Castle paper, "The New Castle Register".

William owned half interest in a cabinet shop, the other being owned by Samuel Dunn. They made the first coffins and furniture, and when Clark sold out to Dunn he bought and operated a grist mill in New Bedford. Later he bought a farm in Union township, where he died in 1893. The only survivor of William is his daughter, Mrs. Edwina Clark Bashline, wife of J. H. Bashline of this city.

Kidnap Slayer Held In Florida Wanted In Denver

Flees From Probation In Denver, Hunted By G-Men, Now Faces Charge Of Murder

TRAVELED UNDER SEVERAL ALIASES

(International News Service)

DENVER, Aug. 11.—Charles Jefferson, radio announcer, arrested in Boca Raton, Fla., as a kidnap-murderer, is wanted by federal agents in Denver.

Jefferson, a man of many aliases, whose true name is Herbert Goddard according to federal agents, was arrested here several months ago under the name of John Scott Sutherland, according to G-men. He was given probation by U. S. District Judge J. Foster Symes.

Last week when Goddard failed to report to the probation officer, G-men started a search for him and it was learned he left Denver July 29 in the company of Miss Beth Collar, 21, whom he had promised a movie job, but who now is in jail at Miami, held as a material witness.

Arrested In Montana

Goddard was arrested by G-men in Montana after he had impersonated a federal officer in Reno, Nev., and went to Montana in company of Genevieve Blake, 23, a magazine solicitor, to whom he had promised a job, federal officers said.

Goddard, script writer, radio announcer, actor and romeo traveled under many aliases, court records show, including Sutherland, Thomas Cohran and Thomas Ashwell.

Attorneys for Goddard when he was arraigned in federal court here said that Goddard was the son of the late Major Herbert Goddard of Boston. His parents separated when he was three, the attorneys said, and his mother later married Thomas Cochran, an official of the Johns-Manville Co.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

An observant friend, a former newspaperman who has been in Germany for the last 18 months, tells this writer that Herr Goebbel's fratic tub-thumping is beginning to induce something like a national yawn.

At the great public festivals and parades, arranged for some visiting potentate or to mark some Nazi anniversary, the crowds are thinner, and the cheering, too, with the attendance made up mostly of school children. At the party mass meetings, my informant reports, they have to put on moving pictures and work like a Coney Island barker to get the crowds.

He attributes all this to sheer wear and tear on the human sensory apparatus. For more than six years now the German people have been assaulted day and night with screaming appeals and thundering commands, blasted at them from the radio, the newspapers, fence and wall posters, the pulpits, cinemas and auditoriums. They are gluttons for this sort of thing, but at last they are hanging on the ropes. Germany is approaching the point of psychological saturation.

"I felt just as if the last day of our hottest presidential campaign were stretched into a year and a half," said my friend. "How these people have stood all this hammering and yammering is beyond me. Every note of the public propaganda is intemperate, febrile, high-pitched and strained, and one feels an artificial tension which is not at all reflected in the easy, friendly behavior of the German people, if you can get to know them and talk to them.

"Among the many incitements to hatred and the yen for glory are thousands of frantically distorted caricatures of statesmen of enemy powers on the hoardings—and all powers are so classified except the axis powers and those who kowtow to them. President Roosevelt is made unbelievably hideous as 'the Jewish war-monger.'

"In Dusseldorff a few months ago, everybody had been ordered to turn out and cheer at a parade for some Yugoslavian big shot. At every corner there were Hauptsturmfuehrers and Sturmhauptfuehrers and Feldmeisters and this and that, in gaudy uniforms, doing everything but turn a back flip to get the straggling and apathetic crowd interested.

"They were up against some stiff competition. A former Coney Island pitchman, who had returned to his native Germany to be with his aged father, had a street corner pitch with some bottles of snake oil and a couple of black tap dancers, and so far as this Yugoslavian was concerned the assorted fuehrers and meisters were no dice. The pitchman had the crowds.

"They rushed him off to the hoosegow, but by the time they got untracked the foreign mogul had passed, mostly to the piping cheers of school children. The crowds hung around the abandoned pitch wistfully—thinking perhaps of the days when they could select their own amusements.

"I have an idea that if a change comes in a Germany—before a war—it will be due to the fact that the people will just sag down in the traces. They can't take much more loud speaker and billboard punishment."

My friend's tale of overworked propaganda made me think of the old story of the ghost and the Irishman. Why an Irishman I don't know, but in those days at least one Irishman was essential for a story like this.

This particular Irishman had been deviled by a particularly obnoxious ghost for months on end. One night the ghost gave him the jitters, muttering in deep, mortuary tones, "I am the devil." Finally the Irishman started a run clear across the county Wexford, with the ghost, just a jump or two behind, gaining fast, and at every jump shouting, "I am the devil."

It was a record run for speed and distance, but after many leagues the Irishman was wavering and wabbling and at last his legs gave way. As he sank down the ghost was hovering over him. "I am the devil," said the ghost. "Who the hell's disputin' yuh?" said the Irishman.

And so it yet may be in Germany.

HESSIAN FLIES IN MERCER WHEAT

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 11.—Thirty-seven per cent of Mercer county's wheat fields are infected with the Hessian fly, County Farm Agent C. H. Waha reported today from a survey made by the United States Department of Agriculture research laboratory.

Hessian fly is controlled by the planting date of wheat. To eradicate the fly infection in next year's crop, Waha explained that wheat should be planted by September 26.

If the wheat is planted before the fly-free date it gives the Hessian fly a chance to lay its eggs in the growing wheat and the crop is infected. However, if planting is done after the egg-laying period the field is free from Hessian fly injury during the growing season. Waha urges all farmers planning to plant wheat to observe the planting date and avoid the egg-laying period.

Workmen today completed the job of erecting a huge sign on Route 422, near the intersection of Route 224 at Parkstown Corners, advertising the Benjamin Franklin Highway, which is Route 224.

The large sign is several thousand feet from the intersection and is quite attractive, being done in several colors. The board reads, "Straight Ahead, Chicago, Omaha and Points West, Short Route—Easy Travel, The Benjamin Franklin Highway, U. S. 224".

Social Security To Send Poster Here

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 11.—The New Castle post office will shortly receive for display a Social Security board poster urging workers with old age insurance accounts to apply for statements of wages which have been credited to them.

The poster will be entitled "How Much Have You Earned Toward Your Old Age Security?" Officials have been directed by First Assistant Postmaster General W. W. Howes to display the poster on the bulletin board.

Old age insurance payments are governed by total earnings of workers holding account numbers. Thus it is important that such earnings be accurately recorded in the individual accounts. The Social Security board now has all accounts totaled as of January 1, 1939, and would like to have workers check these totals so that corrections can be made if necessary.

Italian Police Lock And Close Doors Of United Press Headquarters In Rome

(International News Service)

ROME, Aug. 11.—H. R. Ekins, Rome correspondent of the United Press, Thursday was ordered to leave Italy by 1 P. M. Friday.

The offices of the United Press were closed and locked by Italian police.

The United States embassy attempted to intercede in behalf of the press association, but there appeared to be little possibility of adjustment. It was considered possible that the United Press would be barred from Italy entirely.

The Exchange Telegraph Company, in a dispatch from Rome, said that it was believed the Italian government's action resulted from a recent United Press report from London stating that Premier Mussolini was ill of a heart ailment. The report was subsequently denied.

Passenger In Auto That Killed Elderly Lady Tells Police Everything

DRIVER HUNTED BY AUTHORITIES

(International News Service)

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Aug. 11.—Police today were searching for the companion of conscience stricken Norman Quay, 44, who walked into the police station at Jersey City and told a story of abandoning the body of an elderly woman in a little used road after a car in which he was a passenger had struck and fatally injured her.

Quay was quoted by police as explaining he "had to tell some one about it."

After unburdening himself, Quay guided police to the scene where they found the body of Mrs. Bertha Ayers, 65, of Union Hill. Police said Quay told them he and his companion had intended to take the woman to a hospital as they assured a crowd which collected at the scene of the tragedy but when the woman died while they were reapiring a tire they became frightened and dumped her body out in the woods along a lonely road.

Governor James Not A Candidate

Declares He Has A Job To Do In Harrisburg—Not Running For President

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Gov. Arthur H. James returned suddenly to the Capitol after a 10-day fishing vacation Thursday and categorically denied he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1940.

"I am not a candidate for president," was Governor James' answer to friends' statements that he would be the "ideal nominee" in 1940.

"I am not running for the job. I've got a job to do here."

Asked if he would accept the nomination if offered him, the governor replied: "No man could do that, could he?" He insisted he has nothing to do with the possibility of his name being placed before the Republican national convention next year.

Governor James' declaration was the most explicit he has uttered in connection with the 1940 campaign. Hitherto he has confined his remarks chiefly to advices that the nation should follow the policies enunciated by him when he took office January 17.

He expressed surprise that Col. Carl L. Estes, Texas publisher and his close political advisor, had termed Vice President John N. Garner and Pennsylvania's chief executive as "ideal nominees" in the 1940 election.

Woman Attorney Visiting Here

Sister Of Local Woman First Woman To Be Appointed To Defend A Murder Charge

Sometimes this job of reporting has its conpensations. Sometimes we meet dynamic, interesting people like Miss Henrietta D. Stonestreet, a prominent Baltimore attorney. Sometimes, but not often.

Miss Stonestreet, here for a visit until Sunday with her sister, Mrs. David N. Keast of 302 East Wallace avenue, is a stimulating person, an individual in the real sense of the word. She chose for her career one of the most difficult in the world for a woman, has been very successful, and is known and respected by women lawyers in all parts of the country.

In general practice, with her own office in Baltimore, Miss Stonestreet has handled every type of case, criminal and civil. Fresh out of the University of Maryland law school, her very first client was a woman who had shot and killed her husband. The young lady attorney found some entenuating circumstances and her client got off with 30 days in jail. Miss Stonestreet was the first woman lawyer in the United States to be appointed by court to defend an alleged murderess. That was just a short time after suffrage. Miss Stonestreet as a young girl had a burning desire to be a lawyer, but postponed entering the profession untily women were allowed the vote.

She is a member of the National Association of Women's Lawyers and in July was re-elected to the post of librarian-historian by that organization at the San Francisco convention. She is also a member of the American Bar Association. She has many interests—politics included—and attended the 1932 disarmament conference in Geneva, Switzerland. She likes her law and thinks it a great field for women—unless they want to make money.

SEVERAL PERSONS ATTACKED RECENTLY

Receiving a complaint that a dog was acting queerly last night on the public square, Policeman Charles Shepp attempted to capture the dog and was attacked. The rear of one of his hands was lacerated by the dog. The policeman's wound was treated in the Jameson Memorial hospital.

STRICT SEGREGATION REQUIRED IN SCABIES TREATMENT

Yesterday I described something of scabies and the treatment of this extremely infectious skin disease. It sounds very simple—utmost cleanliness, frequent baths, changes of clothing, segregation, applications of sulphur ointment.

The treatment is very easy in the ordinary family and under ordinary conditions. But scabie was a terribly hard thing to clear up in this country because there are a few unusual conditions which used to make it very difficult to clear up an epidemic of this skin complaint.

For one thing, a few years ago, people in the outlying districts didn't go in much for bathing, especially in the winter, when the weather was extremely cold and water wasn't any too plentiful. Then, too, there was the complication of extraordinarily large families. These families live in comparatively small houses, two and three and four children share one room; no child has the luxury of a bed to himself. These families are, for the most part, poor; sometimes there are scarcely enough clothes to go around. What else could be expected when scabies got into a household like this?

Personally, I have often gone into a home and found fifteen or sixteen children, all infected with scabies. Can you imagine what a job it would be to give all these children baths each evening and oint each one separately?

I recall one family of twenty-two. When I was called they all had scabies. They were a clean family, and the mother did everything she could to clear up the disease. It started in the family about Christmas time, but she didn't get it cleared up until mid-summer. You see, with so many children around, and with no chance of segregation, they kept re-infecting each other all the time.

Getting the people to be clean was the hardest job I had. Sometimes wells would be dry and they had to melt snow for baths. The older people were used to scabies, for many of them had it most of their lives. One day I happened to find a large picture of the parasite that caused the trouble. He is a horrible looking little thing, far worse than any four-footed beast of the woods. I would take that picture around with me and show it to the people who had the scabies and warn them that this was the kind of thing they were carrying around in their bodies. It worked better than anything else to get them to take what precautions they could.

Whenever I went into a household with a dozen or so children, all afflicted with scabies, I would always go straight home, change my clothes and fumigate them as well as take a bath myself.

Philip H. Dewey Dies In Hospital

Former State Grange Master And Secretary Of Internal Affairs Dead At 71

(International News Service)

BLOSSBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—Failing to regain lost strength despite blood transfusions, Philip H. Dewey, of Blossburg, former state secretary of internal affairs and one-time master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, died Thursday after an operation for acute gangrenous appendicitis.

Dewey, a native of Richmond, Tioga county, was 71 years old. Death came in the Blossburg hospital when peritonitis developed following the operation.

A Republican, Dewey was widely known for his vast interest in forestation and farming. On his farm in Tioga county, the former cabinet official planted thousands of trees. As his hobby, Dewey directed a number of bands and musical organizations in the region around Tioga county.

He was elected secretary of internal affairs in 1930, taking office the following May. In 1924, he rose to state master of the grange and was re-elected in 1926. Former Gov. John S. Fisher named Dewey manager of the state workmen's insurance fund in 1927.

Dewey, educated in the schools of Gaines and Mansfield, was married and had four daughters and two sons.

In an autobiography published in 1933, after he had retired to his farm—a farm purchased by Dewey when he was only 18 years old—the late state official wrote of himself:

"Unlike all the stories I have read, I was never accused of being overly handsome, could run no faster, jump no farther or in any other way outdo my associates at work or play."

Registration Clerk Edith Cowden is getting out the front pages of street lists of voters eligible to cast their ballots at the September primary. The list is being made on a mimeograph and there will be about 11,000 of them. The names will be filled in as soon as the registration closes on August 12.

A meeting of farm supervisors was held at the farm bureau office in the welfare building yesterday in connection with the aerial survey which has been made of Lawrence county farms. Pictures taken by the airplanes are now being developed and will be ready soon. The next step will be to figure out the acreage and mark the lines of the farms on the maps. The acreage is figured out with the aid of a gadget made especially for that purpose. The pictures when developed are about two feet long by 18 inches wide. Each represents three square miles of surface.

Bodies Of Two Found In Pond

(International News Service)

WAREHAM, Mass., August 11.—Victims of an unexplained tragedy in a rural vacation spot, the bodies of Miss Lorraine Dahlberg, 29, attractive school teacher, and Stanley Whitten, 32, a pattern maker, were recovered Thursday from White Island pond.

Nearby, nosed gently at the lake shore, was the motorboat in which the couple had embarked for a brief spin around the lake. Its motor was still running—only one of a series of puzzling circumstances enveloping the tragedy in mystery.

but we have no use for chiselers. That there are a lot of them is indicated by reports from Harrisburg, which shows that during this year, there have been an average of one hundred prosecutions per month of persons who have got on relief rolls through false statements.

In these days of the automobile and airplane, one marvels at the wonderful advances made in transportation during the past century. It is only one hundred and thirty-two years ago today, on August 11, 1807, that Fulton's steamboat made its trial trip on the Hudson. It was a history making event that revolutionized navigation. Travel on land was largely by horse power, while the birds had undisputed passage of the air. It's pretty hard to realize how great the changes in such a small space of time.

Rummaging through an old trunk the other day, Pa Newc found an odd little device, being a series of pictures, one inch wide and a little over two inches long, and bound together at one end. By holding this device on the bound end, and running your thumb over the loose end, the pictures gave the illusion of a moving scene. It was the first step toward the moving picture, and was followed by the Mutascope, which produced the same result by turning a crank. The Mutascope held the boards in the peep-show places for thirty years, or until the Edison kinetescope and the Cinematograph, both built on the little card device, came along. Thus was developed the great moving picture business of today.

History is likely to repeat itself if an idea now being promoted in congress, to issue paper money in fifty and twenty-five cent denominations, materializes. It has been many years since we had paper money of those denominations. Samples of it can usually be found in the hands of those who make a hobby of collecting old coins and paper money. It's a question if it would be popular. Since we can't get our hands on gold any more, we like to jingle a few silver coins in our pocket. It makes us sort of feel that we have some real money, instead of promises to pay.

Some women drivers take a peculiar time to show their boldness—or better termed, "ignorance"—when they make a turn from North street onto Jefferson, by cutting entirely too short for the express purpose of trying to scare pedestrians to move along faster or more in the "running speed". Pa Newc noticed that incident happening the other day, and for no reason whatsoever, as traffic was moving along in its usual course. Had the pedestrian hesitated, instead of obliging and dashing more hurriedly to the curb, an accident could have happened with possibility of resulting in suit. Bystanders couldn't understand the motive, either, of the woman driver. Such often causes unnecssary accidents.

That old saying "Grass never grows on a busy street," is not altogether true. Pa Newc can point out several instances, notably County Line street, just below the top of the hill, and East Leasure avenue, as two streets which bear quite a bit of traffic, and where the fall grass can be seen growing up between the bricks. As a matter of fact, fall grass will grow anywhere there is enough earth to cover a seed, it seems.

Edmund and Tommy Kmiotek, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were visiting on the farm of their aunt, Mrs. Paul Suscyski, of Coaltown. Having only read about a farm and what went on, they were having a wonderful time with real horses, cows, chickens, etc., when they were suddenly called home on account of a death in the family. O! how much they regretted to leave, as they had expected to stay here a few more weeks.

Other guests in the home that evening were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Miller and son, Billy, and Mrs. Flora Miller of Beaver Falls.

CHURCH SERVICES

Sunday school at 10 o'clock, superintendent, Henry Taylor; morning worship at 11 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. R. H. Eckert, is on a vacation and in his absence Miss Margaret Wallace will speak at the morning service.

HANDKERCHIEF SHOWER

Several members of the Y. M. P. class were tendered handkerchief showers, in honor of their birthday anniversaries, at a recent class meeting. Those receiving handkerchiefs were as follows: R. H. Eckert, Al Johnson, Paul Quarterson, George Cochran, Mildred Reed, Mrs. Cartwright and Frances Tanner.

Plans were discussed for holding a roller-skating party at Etna Springs, and the date for the affair will be announced in the near future.

ENTERTAINS CLASS

Miss Maria Tanner delightfully entertained the members of her Sunday school class at her home on Thursday evening during the hours from seven to ten o'clock.

The early evening was spent in playing ball and numerous other games. The class was divided into two teams, the boys against the girls and instructions were then given each team for a scavenger hunt. For several minutes little folks went dashing here and there in wild glee in search of a number of curious objects. Victory was soon shouted by the girls team and everyone went indoors to share in the prize. After playing several games indoors, Miss Tanner invited the children into the dining room where they were served dainty refreshments.

Business Chart Reveals Upswing

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11—Even though rail shipments declined more than seasonally and steel operations remained about unchanged, business in the Pittsburgh district moved a little higher last week, the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Pittsburgh reported today.

The bureau's seasonally-adjusted index of business last week stood at 89.6 per cent of the 1923-25 average. It was 89.0 (revised) in the preceding week and 66.9 in the first week of August last year.

The operating rate of the steel industry at the beginning of August was 50-51 per cent of capacity; in the current week the rate was slightly higher and several more blast furnaces were blown in. After allowance for seasonal changes, production of coal and industrial electrical power showed only minor shifts last week.

Find Reich Is Furnishing War Aid To Chinese

Supply Armaments To Kai-Shek On Basis Of Long-Term Contracts

JAPAN IS ALLY OF GERMANY TOO

(International News Service)

LONDON—Frequent reports that Germany continues to supply arms to China to fight Japan, Far Eastern end of the Totalitarian Axis, were confirmed today by Baron Gerard de Graffenried de Villars, European director of Maurice Augsburg and Company, Swiss firm which has supplied arms to China for 20 years.

According to Baron de Villars, Germany has long-term pre-China-war contracts with the Chinese Government for the supply of certain armaments.

It would be difficult to break these contracts to help Japan, axis ally, because China may hold production guaranties. It is difficult to ascertain the exact position, which has not been generally known since last summer.

Other Arm Sources

"China is getting cartridges from Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Belgium," Baron de Villars said.

"Business with China is not too bad, but it is not as good as in the previous war in China Sino-Japanese fighting of 1932). That was much easier.

"Main part of China's imports of arms, now that Japanese control the sea routes and the China Sea is taken in through Rangoon, on Mandalay railroad."

Regarding 30,000 gas masks ordered by the Cantonese Government, the baron said they were manufactured in Slovakia.

He said his firm was supplying the Chinese Government with any arms they ordered. This was part of the long-standing relationship.

His last consignment was "quite a good one," but he declined to state what percentage came from Germany.

Property Owners Urge Lower Taxes

Association To Fight For Abolition Of Some If Special Session Is Called

A large percentage of representative New Castle and Lawrence county citizens—industrial and business and professional leaders, small home owners and farmers—will support the Pennsylvania Property Owners' association fight against high taxation if a special session of the state legislature is called by Governor Arthur H. James, the association said in Harrisburg today.

The local taxpayers' committee will be formally completed at a meeting here in September, it was said.

All depressive taxes, both on business and real estate, will be battled by the organization and its local backers, R. A. Scully, field secretary for the organization reported.

Writing from the capital office of the porperty owners' association headquarters, Secretary W. D. Berryman reminded the membership:

"It is difficult indeed, as long experience proves, to make plain to legislators not schooled in the economics of taxation, and most of them are not, that certain taxes are, actually, the reason for more taxes—that special taxes for the support of the jobless are made necessary, to some extent, by the kind of taxes now levied—that certain types of taxes are so depressive in their effect that they do create unemployment, making more taxes necessary for the support of the unemployed these depressive taxes are responsible for.

"It is this that has been, and still is, the point we have been attempting to make clear, in our legislative activities at Harrisburg. It is the reason we have labored, with perseverance, to have the state's tax structure revised, so that it will be less depressive."

Robot Reporter Soars Into Space

Robot Machine On Trial Of Cosmic Ray Secrets Is Released By Chicago Scientists

HOPE TO REACH 16 MILES IN AIR

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A robot reporter on the trail of elusive cosmic rays was bouncing around the heavens today—probably somewhere over Ohio—carrying the hopes of some of the nation's greatest scientists.

The robot, a delicately constructed device equipped to count cosmic rays, photograph its surroundings and record temperature and barometric pressure, was sent on its journey yesterday by Dr. Arthur Compton, Nobel prize winner and world famous authority on the subject of cosmic rays.

With a group of assistants Dr. Compton supervised the takeoff of the apparatus from the athletic field of the University of Chicago. As, harnessed to seven rubber balloons inflated with hydrogen, the "reporter" climbed out of sight, Dr. Compton, who is professor of physics at the university, explained.

Ninth Attempt

"This is the ninth ascent we have undertaken in this way and we hope to send the apparatus to an altitude of 16 miles—a mile higher than we have reached before. We are using seven balloons where we used five previously."

Dr. Compton explained that the higher the balloons rise, the lower the outside pressure is upon them, and they grow larger and larger until finally they burst one by one and the descent begins.

After studying weather and air currents, Dr. Compton predicted the robot would land sometime today somewhere in Ohio. A message attached to the apparatus tells the finder, who is rewarded with $10, to notify the university.

Elisha: A Life Of Helpfulness

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Be ye kind one to another."—Ephesians 4:32

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 13 is II Kings 5:1-27. The Golden Text being Ephesians 4:32. "Be ye kind one to another.")

ELIJAH, the "man of courage," who was not afraid to tell the kings to their faces when they were in the wrong and what punishment would follow was nearing the end of his life. Who would succeed him?

One day as Elijah journeyed along the road, he saw a young man plowing in the field with 12 oxen, and when the young man saw Elijah he left his oxen and followed after him. Elijah tried to send him back, but to all his remonstrances Elisha answered: "As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee."

So the two journeyed on together. They came to a stream and Elijah took his mantle and wrapped it together and smote the waters and they were divided so that the two passed over. Then Elijah said to Elisha, "Ask what I shall do for thee before I am taken away from thee." And Elisha answered, "I pray thee, let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me."

"Thou hast asked a hard thing," said Elijah; "nevertheless if thou see me when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee, but if not, it shall not be so."

Elijah Caught Up To Heaven

And then there appeared a chariot of fire and horses of fire, and parted the two men and Elijah was caught up by a whirlwind to heaven. Elisha caught Elijah's mantle as it fell from him and went to the bank of the Jordan river. Holding the mantle he smote the waters as Elijah had done, and the waters parted to let him pass through. So he knew that Elijah's power to work miracles had fallen on him.

The topic of our lesson today is "Elisha: A Life of Helpfulness." Elisha was considered more gentle and sympathetic than Elijah. The only story told of him that contradicts that statement is the one of the children who called him "bald-head," which provoked him so that he cursed them and from the woods came two bears who injured the children. Possibly some enemy of Elisha's told that story to discredit him, for in all the other records of his life he is pictured as kind; but firm. He was a friend and counselor of the kings and only once, during a bad famine, was he threatened. He helped widows and other unfortunates.

One woman proved a good friend of his and gave him bread to eat when he came that way, and told her husband she was going to prepare a room where Elisha could rest when he came that way. She did so and when he found that above all things she wanted a son he petitioned the Lord to give her one. The child came, and when he was still very young he died. He had been out in the field with his father and suddently put his hands to his head and cried, "My head, my heart!" His father took him home but he apparently died, and his mother set out to find Elisha. Elisha came and laid himself on the child, breathing into him, and the child came to life.

Cures Naaman's Leprosy

There there is the story of the captain of the king of Syria's soldiers. He was a good and brave man, but a leper. The king he served was an enemy of the king of Israel and in one of their battles he had brought home a little Jewish girl as a slave, and she waited on his wife. The captain's name was Naaman. The little slave girl told Naaman's wife that it was a pity they could not send for Elisha, the prophet of Samaria, for he would cure the leprosy. When Naaman heard that he asked his king's leave to go to Israel, and took gifts with him. His king wrote a letter to the king of Israel and asked him to cure Naaman's leprosy, not mentioning Elisha. The king of Israel was pretty upset about it, not understanding the matter, he rent his clothes, saying, "Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy? wherefore consider, I pray you, and see how he seeketh a quarrel against me.

When Elisha heard the story he told them to let Naaman come to him, and when he had come he told him, "go wash in the Jordan seven times, and thou shalt be clean."

Naaman was very discouraged at that advice when he thought he would have something much more important to do. In fact, he was very angry. But he was finally prevailed upon to do that very simple thing, and lo and behold "his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean."

We cannot work miracles, but we can be good neighbors and friends, helping wherever we can, and thus live lives of helpfulness, following our Golden Text, "Be ye kind one to another."

G. N. C. A. Board Meets Thursday

Three Hour Session Reveals Action On Industrial Prospects

Twenty-four industrial propositions—some large, some small—have been carefully investigated by the Greater New Castle Association within recent months, members of the GNCA's 12 member board of directors and 26 member advisory council were told in a three-hour joint meeting last night.

The association's governing groups met in a downtown office.

Clark Presides

President Norman E. Clark, who presided reported on the investigation of the prospective industries. He said the association's industrial promotion committee has been and still is hard at work. He said, while some of the 24 did not possess merit enough to warrant further serious consideration, four had shown exceptional merit and deserve continued negotiation.

The directors and advisors listened to the industrial report with interest.

Stressing that "strict confidence" must be maintained the negotiations President Clark reminded the groups that hundreds of other cities are seeking new and sound industries.

Clark spoke of the long-range industrial promotion program of the GNCA and emphasized that officers, board men, advisory council members and others have every hope it will produce "decidedly worthwhile results."

Round Reports

The chairman of the advisory council, Louis B. Round, reported last night on the recent Harrisburg conference of city and county officials and GNCA leaders with Maj. Philip Mathews, state WPA administrator.

He said that while Maj. Mathews could not have the New Castle WPA headquarters retained, he advanced helpful suggestions regarding WPA projects and unemployment in New Castle and the county.

President Clark shortly will name a committee to make a survey of possible WPA projects that would be economically sound for this community.

Near Completion Of Wall Building Task Near Ward

Fine Project To Protect City Property From Flood Waters In Near Future

Within a few weeks, the project of building hewn stone dikes at the city disposal plant, just outside the Seventh Ward, will have been completed. At the present time the work men are nearing the Willow Grove road with their work.

Solid foundations are being erected for the wall and then huge sections of hewn stones are fitted into place to form a wall. This dike now reaches from far below the disposal plant, and runs all along the Mahoning river to the plant, where it turns and is now being built towards the highway.

This system of construction provides a wall around all sides of the disposal plant that might be endangered in times of high water. A force of about 50 men have been engaged on the job for some time.

Keystone Farmers' Income Takes Drop

Receipts Thus Far Down Six Per Cent, Bureau Report Shows

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11.—The decline in cash income of farmers from sale of principal farm products during the first half of this year was slightly more severe in Pennsylvania than the country at large, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports.

The bureau reported such receipts of Pennsylvania farmers as totaling $112,413,000 for the first half of this year. This was a decrease of six per cent below the $119,216,000 in receipts for the corresponding 1938 period. In the country as a whole, on the other hand, such income dropped off only four per cent.

Income of Pennsylvania farmers from sale of crops fell from $95,100,000 to $90,644,000. Receipts from sale of livestock and livestock products decreased from $24,116,000 to $21,769,000. Federal benefit payments to Pennsylvania farmers cooperating in the soil conservation program, however, increased from $2,254,000 to $3,721,000.

RECORD TOMATO CROP IS FORSEEN IN STATE

HARRISBURG, August 11.—The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is advised that the canning of tomatoes from the largest acreage ever grown in the state will begin this month.

It is expected that the acreage harvested this year will greatly exceed the 16,100 acreage record of 1938, due principally to increased contracting of processors of tomato juice and tomato products.

City Baseball Loop Managers To Meet Tonight

Will Arrange To Playoff Number Of Postponed Games, Will Discuss Banquet

PLAN TO START GAMES EARLIER

There will be a meeting tonight at the St. Joseph's Parish Hall of all managers of the teams in the City Baseball league, and the following officials of the league: President Father Peter Schirra; vice president, Danny DeGenova, and Michael "Jake" Babovsky, secretary of the league. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

It will not be necessary for the board of commissioners to attend the meeting or any of the players. No one will be admitted to the meeting hall, but the above mentioned officials and the ten managers or business managers.

The purpose of the meeting is to arrange to playoff a number of games that have been postponed in the second half of the league season. Also a discussion will take place as to starting the games in the fast City loop at 5:30 o'clock instead of 5:45 o'clock, so that seven innings can be played.

Suggest Banquet

It has been suggested that the City Baseball league season be closed officially with a gigantic banquet for all players, managers, officials and anyone interested in the league. This matter will also be up for discussion among the managers.

The City Baseball league race is tighter than a drumhead now, with the Lawrence Indies getting burned last night by the Columbus club. It is a five-team race for the pennant in the second half. That the league is becoming more and more popular is evidenced by the large crowds at all of the games.

Crowds of 1,000 or 2,000 at the games is no rare sight any more. Baseball is definitely on the upclimb in New Castle and the City league is largely responsible.

Lefty Tonsetic Pitches Four-Hit Game As "Gas House" Gang Take 4 To 1 Victory

West Pittsburg is still very much in the City Baseball league second-half pennant fight, by virtue of having dropped the K. Pulaski team last night at West Pittsburg 4 to 1 with Lefty Tonsetic pitching a very brilliant four-hit game.

The Indies having lost to the Columbus club makes the race tighter, according to Manager Danny DeGenova. Cab Mrozek did the Pulaski heaving and was found for seven hits. Tonsetic and Smialowski had the only extra base hits in the game. James Markey had two of the West Pittsburg hits.

The "Gas House" gang won the game in the first two innings scoring two runs in the first and two in the second.

Conn-Dorazio To Box Monday

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Billy Conn and Gus Dorazio were reported in excellent fighting trim today and just about ready for their scheduled 10-round non-title bout at Shibe park Monday night.

Dr. W. B. G. Terry, physician for the state athletic commission, examined both fighters at their respective camps. Both Dorazio, Philadelphia entry, and Conn, light heavyweight king, show normal blood pressure, heart action and reflexes, Dr. Terry said.

"When I hit Conn with this right hand," Dorazio told the physician, "it's be all over."

Pittsburgh Billy talked with his left jab as he almost tore the heads off three sparring partners at nearby Leiperville.

Slovaks-Elders Battle To Tie

Leroy "Blondie" Anderson Hurls Four-Hit Game But Errors Are Costly

Leroy "Blondie" Anderson pitched a swell game at the Lockley Field last night trying to win his twelfth straight in the City Baseball league but his mates, the Slovaks Club players kicked his game away with a total of six errors. Hartman opposed Anderson and was touched for seven hits.

Bevan had the only extra-base hit in the game, a double. The Elders took the lead in the second inning but the Slovaks grabbed it back in the third with a four-run attack on Dolly Hartman. The Elders came through with two more in the last of the third and one in the last of the sixth to tie the game up.

McCullough To Fill Whizzer White's Shoes

TWO RIVERS, Wis., Aug. 11.—As the vanguard of the Pittsburgh Pirates professional football squad headed by Coach Johnny Blood arrived here to begin training for the 1939 National league season, it became apparent that a certain husky young man from Oklahoma has cut out a big job for himself.

He is Hugh McCullough, six foot 190-pound halfback, who is aspiring to fill the fleet shoes worn last year by no other than the redoubtable Byron "Whizzer" White, Pirate 1938 star now peacefully acquiring further higher education in the sedate halls of Oxford, which he preferred to taking the cash and hard knocks of another season in pro football.

And according to statistics prepared by the American Football Statistical bureau on intercollegiate games in 1938, the University of Oklahoma star is amply equipped to fill the famous Whizzer's shoes.

For one thing, although Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian flash playing this fall with the Philadelphia Eagles, received all the plaudits for forward passing ability, the cold figures disclose that McCullough was his superior.

O'Brien's Superior

McCullough completed 69 of 109 forward passes for a 63.2 per cent average while O'Brien finished 93 out of 167 for a 55.7 per cent. But whereas O'Brien was strictly a passer on account of his small size, McCullough, like White, is also a great runner and plunger, kicker and stalwart defensive player.

"From his record and scouts' reports, I would say McCullough is a real type of pro football player," Blood said.

McCullough was the unanimous choice for the Big Six Conference and was his school's leading scorer, making six touchdowns, six conversions and one field goal. He carried the ball 383 yards, making two of his touchdowns through the famous line of the University of Nebraska, no mean feat in itself.

Squad veterans who summered in Pittsburgh were the first to arrive with Blood and start getting in shape while each bus from Green Bay brought recruits from the collegiate field of 1938.

Here And There In Sports' Land

Saturday is a day for sportsmen, their families and persons who are interested in outdoor life. They will gather under the sponsorship of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association at Neshannock Falls. It will be a basket dinner affair. Motion pictures will be shown and there will be various events, winners of which will receive prizes.

There will be no boxing show at the Arena, Monday night. However, one of the classiest dockets is being arranged for either late this month or early September. Some of the best scrappers obtainable will be listed in the battles. Due to injuries some of the boys scheduled for last Monday night did not appear and a few of the bouts were not up to standard.

Rainey Halts Indies Streak

Columbus Club Star Hurler Gives Lawrence Indies But Four Hits, Win 5 To 2

"Monk" Rainey, the Columbus club pitching ace, put a stop to the winning streak of the City Baseball league leading Lawrence Indies team at the E. & A. field last night with a most masterful exhibition of hurling, allowing the Indies but four hits and handcuffing them in every inning with his famous hook ball.

Rainey had nine strikeouts and walked but two men. Extra-heavy hitting was done by Mike Orlando, Baker, Gennock and Mosley.

The Columbus club spotted the Indies a two-run lead at the first of the third, but took the lead a few minutes later in the same inning with a four-run attack on veteran Paul Coates.

The defeat of the Indies makes the City league second half race a five-team affair. The Slovaks are in the runnerup spot with the West Pittsburgs, Elders and Tigers trailing just behind.

Shute-Sarazen Tied For Lead At Pittsburgh

Lead Dapper Dan Tourney With 71's For First 18 Holes Of Qualifying Round

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Gene Sarazen and Denny Shute, veteran golf professionals, today led the field of 160 contenders in the $10,000 Dapper Dan club tournament at the Wildwood Country club here.

Both shot 71's, one over par, in the first day of play.

Shute of Huntington, W. Va., two-time winner of the national P. G. A. title, came in first with a 35-36. Sarazen, the East Brookfield "gentleman farmer", finished late with a 34-37.

Big Crowd On Hand

A record first-day gallery of 4,500 watched the field, including some of the nation's topnotch golfers, struggle futilely to crack par, normally 72 but shaved to 70 for this tourney.

Following Sarazen and Shute with 72's when play opens today will be Byron Nelson, Reading, current national open champion; Jimmy Thomson, Shawnee-on-Delaware; Ed Dudley, Philadelphia; Ralph Guldahl, Madison, N. J., twice winner of the open crown; Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., and Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill., another former P. G. A. champ trying for the $2,500 first prize.

A second group of six, carding 73's, was: Perry Delyecchio, Greensburg, Pa.; Johnny Bulla, Chicago; Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles; Ted Turner, Pine Valley; Tony Penna, Dayton, O., and Babe Wagner, Alliance, O.

Two local amateurs were among the 11 who qualified with 74's. They were Andy Szwedko, Etna steelworker, who recently won the national publinks championship, and Jack Benson, South Hills, former West Penn amateur champion.

Senators Again Defeat Yankees

Lead Of Yanks Pared Some More By "Legislators"; Cubs Top Reds

GIANTS MOVE TO FOURTH POSITION

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—In spite of all that has been said and written up to this point, it may be that, without knowing it, we are watching the decline and fall of the New York Yankee empire, for the club that has been designated by many observers as the greatest that ever spiked a diamond clings today to a dwindling lead of only 5½ games in the American League pennant race. It is gripped by a slump of almost unbelievable tenacity in the light of what the Yanks have done in the past. Briefly, the Yanks have mislaid the knack of putting on those big, winning one-inning splashes and they are spiritless with the result that they have won only four of their last 11 starts.

Senators Top Yanks

The Yanks don't bounce back any more like they used to. In fact, the Yanks aren't the Yanks right now.

As a matter of statistics, when the Yanks lost yesterday to Washington by 7 to 5, it was their 102nd game of the season—70 wins and 32 defeats.

Monty Pearson lost yesterday's game and failed to go the route, while the Red Sox were completing a three game sweep of the Philadelphia series, 7 to 5—the same score by which the Yanks lost. Meantime, the Chicago White Sox' hopes of overtaking the leaders received a setback in the only other game in the circuit, the Detroit Tigers beating the Chicagoans, 4 to 3.

Cubs Beat Reds

The idle St. Louis Cardinals picked up a half game to bring the Cincinnati Reds down to a 7½ game lead, the latter losing to the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 4, and Paul Derringer being charged with his seventh defeat against 15 triumphs.

The New York Giants won their ninth victiry in their last 12 starts, turning back Boston, 6 to 3, and moved into fourth place ahead of the idle Pittsburgh Pirates. The Philadelphia Phillies split with the Brooklyn Dodgers, the latter taking the opener 3 to 0 on Luke Hamlin's three-hit pitching and the Phils winning the nightcap, 8 to 3.

Van Horn Will Oppose Parker In Rye Match

(International News Service)

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Welby Van Horn twice came east from California, as the tail to the tennis kite that was young Jackie Kramer.

But this year it's different. Kramer has sat on the sidelines since the first round of the current eastern tournament at the Westchester Country club, while today it is Van Horn who rides in fast company as a semi-finalist.

Van Horn in the penultimate round here is one of the major surprises of the season. From first round through his quarter finals victory over eighth seeded Gil Hunt yesterday, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7, Van Horn has been the underdog.

In beating Hunt, Van Horn eliminated the national ninth ranking player. Van Horn will again be the underdog when he faces Frankie Parker.

Parker had a narrow squeak, Johnny Doeg having four match points on him before he drew out a 5-7, 7-5, 13-11 decision. Bobby Riggs handed Bitsy Grant a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 lacing, and Ladislav Hecht, Prague, beat Hank Prusoff, 6-4, 9-7.

To Discontinue Promotions At School Mid-Term

School Board Also To Discontinue Admitting Pupils In January

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 11—By an unanimous vote, the Ellwood City Board of Education in stated session last evening upon the recommendation of superintendent, J. Ellis Bell, agreed to discontinue mid-year promotions and to discontinue the admittance of beginners in January.

This is an economy move and the initial step in eliminating mid-year graduations, although it will take some time before the January graduating exercises can be discontinued. The enumerator's list of pupils, who will be eligible to start to school at mid-year, shows only 31 pupils, who would be divided among the five schools of the city. In explanation it was shown that at the Ewing Park there would be only 3 beginners at mid-year and that they would require the services of one teacher, who ordinarly would take care of 30 pupils.

Dr. A. M. Giglotti, stressing the need of a kindergarten in the city, objected to the move, but being informed of the economy needs voted to give the system a trial. There would be 818 pupils involved in the chirge.

Bell Recommendation

Mr. Bell's recommendation follows:

"A further study reveals that of all the pupils who could have started to school last January only 45 per cent did so. This would indicate that parents prefer to start their children in September rather than at mid-term.

"A record of testing by standard tests, over the past six years, indicates that most of the groups starting to school in September scored higher than the groups which started to school at mid-term.

"The School Code now permits pupils who will be six years of age by February 1st, to start school in September. This means that a pupil can start to school when he is five years and seven months of age.

"With these facts in mind it would seem advisable that the practice of taking beginners at mid-year be discontinued and that steps be taken whereby we can eliminate mid-year groups by merging them with those who have started to school in September.

"One possible way to merge would be to retain the mid-year pupils in their present grade for an extra semester. For example, a pupil now in the 4A grade would under the present arrangement become a 5B at mid-term. We would propose that he remain a 4A for the entire year, thus giving him three semesters of fourth grade work. This would not mean that the pupil who has mastered his subjects would repeat the same work. He would study new materials in reading, literature, geography, history and arithmetic, but still on a fourth grade level. He would have what we call an enriched program. Pupils who had not mastered their work thoroughly would have a chance to review the subjects in which they were weak. This principle would be applied to grades 1A, 2A, 3A, 4A, 5A, 6A, 7A, and 8A.

"Each pupil in these grades would be given standard achievement tests to determine if he is below, average or above grade. In case the test showed him to be far enough advanced that skipping a semester's work would not handicap him in his future schooling, he could be permitted to advance into the next grade, provided he is doing good scholastic work and is recommended for double promotion by his teachers. This would solve some of the objections which are likely to be raised by parents.

Alice Stillwagon To Be September Bride

Announcement Of Nuptial Date To Donald Howells Made At Lovely Party

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 11.—With September to rival June as the month of brides in this city, the very first one will be Miss Alice Stillwagon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Stillwagon, who has chosen Friday, September 1, as the date of her wedding to Donald Howells, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Howells, of Orchard avenue.

Announcement of the nuptial date was made at a lovely party held last evening at the Stillwagon home. The wedding news, "Alice and Don, September 1", was found in tiny scrolls attached to the novel wedding bell favors.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening with the attractive prizes going to Mrs. Ray McConahy and Miss Virginia Fisher and the low favor to Miss Dorothy Dambach. Mrs. Stillwagon was aided in serving by her sister, Mrs. N. F. Flack, of Struthers, O. For the occasion the home was prettily decorated with fragrant garden flowers.

Martin Given Eight Months To Workhouse

Also Fined $1,000 By Judge W. Walter Braham In "Numbers" Case

OTHER SENTENCES PASSED AT COURT

Efforts to put a stop to the "numbers" racket in Lawrence County were indicated at court this morning, when Judge W. Walter Braham sentenced Edward Martin to pay $1,000 fine and undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny county workhouse for eight months.

Spears Martin, who was arraigned with him, was paroled, as the facts surrounding the case indicated that he was only interested in the lease of a building and was not actively engaged in the "numbers" racket. The charge against the Martins was operating a lottery.

Information Difficult

When the men came up for sentence District Attorney John G. Lamoree told the court that efforts were being made to break up the "numbers" racket in this city, but that it was hard to get the necessary information. Those who sell numbers don't seem to know where they get them.

In passing sentence Judge Braham remarked that we don't want Lawrence county to get into same class as Mahoning county, Ohio, where some recent exposes of the "numbers" racket are being made.

Other Sentences

Jimmie Owens, concerned in the making of a fraudulent check, was sentenced six months to the county jail, his sentence to date from August 7.

Ben Kotsal, for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, drew 30 days to the county jail, to be released in five days upon the payment of $100 fine and costs.

Edith Gorman, alias Adelle Owens, fraudulently making a check, was given six months to the county jail to date from August 7. Irma Cassiday, alias Adelle Owens, the same person as above, had a second charge against her on which her sentence was made to run concurrent with the first.

Robert L. Durham, charged with perjury, in connection with statements made at the marriage license bureau and at the Public Assistance Department, was sentenced to three months to the county jail.

Can You Spell Condescension?

Perhaps You Can, But A Lot Of The Folks At The Spelling Bee Couldn't

Don't look now, but can you spell "condescension?"

That word proved the downfall of close to a dozen contestants in the old time spelling bee conducted Thursday night in the auditorium of the First Christian church. The rest of the spellers dropped out when "conscientious" and "equinoctial" came along. All, that is, except "the winnah," Mrs. Sylvia Sturdevant, pride of Mullentown. Miss Margaret Toepfer, attorney, who was the hope of Mahoningtown, came in a close second and both received prizes.

Reunioners Are Contestants

Contestants were members of the various school reunion associations of New Castle. The bee was sponsored by the Martin Gantz school group; this group did the challenging and thought it "had it in the bag," with such spellers as Mabel Hutchison Bollard on the team.

Some of the words that "mowed 'em down" were: Nickel, cruiser, perceive, seizing, controversial and reminiscence.

Hughie Hannon surprised himself by staying in for three of the spelling rounds.

"I did almost as good as Tony Galento," he said.

Prof. Roy G. Leslie pitched the words to the contestants. The contestants caught a good many, but some of the words caught them. Miss Clare Duff served as secretary and Fred Duff as judge.

Numerous prizes were awarded and everyone had a fine time. The church auditorium was nearly filled by interested listeners.

Spelling Teams

Martin Gantz—Mabel Hutchison Bollard, Albert Genkinger, Fred Sankey, Arthur Bratschie.

Lincoln—Josephine Sanford Hoover, Henry Golder, Dallas Hildebrand, Mrs. Robert Clark.

Mullentown—Frances Barnes, Sylvia Sturdevant, Hugh Hannon, Florence McCoy Mauck.

Mahoningtown—Margaret A. Toepfer, Bessie Coates Pitzer, Clarence A. Patterson, Mrs. Ella Magill.

Thaddeus Stevens—William E. Clark, Russell C. Melvin, Harlow W. Clark, David Snider.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL.

We don't want to be misunderstood . . . we have the greatest respect for the law especially when in uniform. But there are certain fleals that we think the law should respect especially when it is in uniform. The one we are thinking about today is driving. Should an officer in uniform driving his own car, respect traffic signs? It is our belief that he should, but we witnessed one this morning that seemed to think the (traffic signs) were made for the other people. An example should be set, me thinks.

If some of the other streets in town would be resurfaced . . . such as has been done on Walnut street . . . it would be a great savings to the car owner. And a great boost for the city. A town with smooth streets. Of course, this could be accomplished over a period of years . . . but not too many years.

Yesterday and the day before all store employees and their bosses were busy getting things ready for Dollar Day. Now they have some very fine bargains and a lot of the items for sale are brand new styles. So if you didn't get a chance to get to town today . . . the sale will be in full force Saturday. So walk around.

The Lawrence County Sportsmen will hold an all-day picnic at Neshannock Falls Park Saturday . . . August 12th. That's tomorrow. Activities will start tomorrow morning at nine o'clock . . . there will be plenty of FREE entertainment and eats for all. Contests that not only will be thrilling to enter but thrilling to watch. Everyone interested in sports are invited. Let's see a large crowd. Moving pictures of popular fishing and hunting grounds will be shown in the evening. Most everything is FREE. Our sportsmen association here in Lawrence is one of the most active groups in the state . . . enjoy their party.

It is said of an old fellow of our acquaintance, that every time he takes his hat off he goes to sleep . . . but it is not true with the classified ads . . . every time you use a classified ad it works while you sleep. It keeps shouting its message long and far. Did you know that nearly 90,000 people read The News? And that we, New Castle, are sitting in the center of the greatest opportunity center in the world? It pays to use the classified page.

La Guardia Sets New Record For Business Talks

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—New York's peripatetic chief executive, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, today regarded the new time and distance records he established yesterday in a 1400-mile airplane hop during which he transacted a host of business as merely another routine matter in his busy life.

The mayor rose at 5:30, inspected a site for a new poultry market, took off about 7:30 for Chicago, stopping enroute at Washington and Cincinnati on W.P.A. matters, extolled the World's Fair in a speech at Chicago, and arrived back in New York to sign some city bonds at 9:30 in the evening.

Stock Market Improves Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, August 11.—The stock market improved today, recovering some of the ground lost in the weakness of the last two days.

Best prices were made in stocks at the opening, when leaders scored gains running from fractions to nearly two points and Allied Chemical spurted three. The advances were reduced considerably later.

Trading was moderately active at the start. Good-sized blocks were numerous, running to 2,500 shares of Chrysler. The list turned very quiet later.

Allied retained only a fraction of its three-point spurt, while Chrysler lost almost half of its opening gain of 1¾.

Steel shares moved up for gains exceeding a point but lost a good part of this by the end of the second hour.

Oil shares were again under pressure as a result of the crude cut. Texas and Standard of New Jersey hit new lows.

A number of issues retained sizable gains, Westinghouse was up nearly 2. Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville and American Telephone were up a point and more each.

DuPont ran up just short of two points and lost most of this later.

BRITAIN AGREES TO JAP DEMANDS

gal experts had served to convince Great Britain that a "prima facie" case exists.

Two of the Chinese held for their own safe-keeping by British authorities in Tientsin will be surrendered to a local Chinese court on the direct charge of murder. Two others will be handed over on charges of being members of an illegal terrorist organization.

One Other Arrest

A fifth Chinese, whose arrest last September did not become known until Britain's decision was announced today, also will be surrendered.

Ambassador Craigie was instructed to point out to Japan that this action by the British government leads England to expect an immediate resumption of the Tokyo negotiations, hitherto stalemated because of sharp differences of opinion on political and economic questions.

The British are particularly anxious to thresh out the issues of the policing and future security of Tientsin, as well as the question of Chinese currency. Japan thus far has insisted upon the surrender of 48,000,000 Chinese silver dollars held in Tientsin specie banks.

LOVE LAUGHS AT IRON LUNG CAGE

bers of the bride's and groom's families, and shortly after it was completed the newlyweds left on a one-day honeymoon trip through northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

Trailer Trip

The journey was made in the 29-year-old Snite's trailer, which carries the 900-pound iron lung in which he has lived since stricken three years ago while traveling in China. The couple were accompanied only by a chauffeur, Kay Graf, a nurse, and one of Snite's attendants, Raymond Hywatt.

One stop was made on the trip, at Elkhorn, Wis., where the honeymooners dined with friends, Mr. and Mrs. V. N. Ollier. When they returned to the Snite mansion in River Forest, a residential suburb north of Chicago, it was revealed the newlyweds had covered some 220 miles.

At the Snite home today it was said the young couple planned no additional trips in the immediate future. It was explained that Snite must remain at home for at least 30 days while undergoing new treatments.

brought out a huge throng. Sidewalks in the business section were crowded.

And, added up, all of it pleased the merchants. An association spokesman said:

"It's one of the biggest crowds of buyers we've seen for some time. Saturday will be a big day, too."

Many Specials

Specials in many stores—specials that were extraordinarily attractive, disappeared long before noon today. They were replaced with additional specials equilly as popular with the crowds.

Today's edition of The News carries additional "specials" which will draw throngs out tomorrow.

Usually limited to a day, the dollar affair this season is being extended to two.

Forty-six stores are participating.

Ellport is the other delinquent district. It was understood that if they receive a special appropriation to aid with the tuition at the present time, that it will be required of their district to reduce the teaching force and to be re-classified, which will mean that the amount of the regular appropriation will be reduced and the reduction will be greater than the special appropriation. They have not notified the board of what arrangements they plan to make.

Many parents have made inquiry of the local district if their children will be permitted to attend if they pay the tuition and the board agreed to confer with their attorney on the matter.

Bids for covering for the Circle school floors were received and after much discussion it was agreed to have the downstairs hall covered with a new preparation for a year's trial before awarding the bid for the entire building. The material and installation will cost twenty cents per foot.

Or use at the Ewing Park tennis court, 150 yards of cyclone fence will be loaned to the city. The matter of planting shrubbery about the Ewing Park school was tabled for the present. Annual report of the auditors was accepted.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Stuttering usually starts during childhood or adolescence.

Few develop it after reaching maturity.

Stuttering is a symptom of underlying nervous condition.

Respiration and vocal cords are poorly coordinated.

Faulty articulation plays a part in stuttering.

Stuttering is described as a "spasm."

This "spasm" may be in the jaw or the muscles of the lips.

The condition always tends to spread to other muscles.

There is a definite loss of nervous control.

Loss of confidence follows—and fear enters.

Courage and confidence can put fear to flight.

Calmness and patience are needed in cases of stuttering.

There is no immunity to injury, everyone being susceptible.

Injuries are the concern of the medical profession.

Emergency treatment is the responsibility of the public, too.

Laymen usually render first-aid at the scene of the accident.

The public should know something about first-aid treatment.

Guarded care is important at the scene of the accident.

Fractures, common in accidents, require gentle handling.

Extensive bleeding and shock call for skilled attention.

Many industrial plants employ lay persons knowing first-aid.

First-aid is often well-intentioned.

First-aid is too often hurried and compounds the injuries.

First, comfort for the injured, then seek skilled aid.

Many Epileptics, Feeble Minded In State's Care

Almost 6,000 In Four Institutions, Waiting List Is Large One

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Nearly 6,000 sub-normal men, women and children, and epileptics, were in the Commonwealth's four special institutions at the beginning of last month, Secretary of Welfare E. Arthur Sweeny said today.

Although 415 men, women and children were admitted to the institutions last year, the waiting list for admission remained at more than 3,000, the Welfare Secretary said.

Waiting lists for the institutions were: Laurelton, 735; Pennhurst, 1,425; Polk, 969 and Selinsgrove 87 males. In addition, the latter institution has 86 boys, girls and adult females awaiting admission when quarters for other than male patients become available.

Secretary Sweeny said that fully 25 percent of the waiting list will be eliminated upon final consideration of their cases. Many will be removed by death; others through adjustment of themselves and many more will be found not to be mentally defective or epileptic, leaving approximately 2,400 definitely requiring institutionalization.

During the last fiscal year 107 persons were discharged from the four institutions as improved: 63 as unimproved who were removed by court or relatives' actions; two were found not to be mentally defective or epileptic, while 146 died, making a total change in population of 319 persons.
